Frederic News

Charles Post and son, Jack, motored to Lansing and Ann Arbor for the week end.

A large new barn has been completed on the Charles Post farm. Mr. and Mrs. Tim Webb of Flint called on old friends last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Wilcox were called to Bay City last Friday night. Mrs. Wilcox's son, Kenneth Confer, was involved in a car accident and was badly hurt.

Otis Weaver was called to Buchanan last week by the death of his brother-in-law, Clyde Bergsma. The Billie Gannon of Marquette is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. E. Smock, also Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knox of Saginaw.

We hear wedding bells will ring again in Frederic June 26 for Mrs. Jennie Lee Welch and Ed Jungman. Congratulations.

John Howell, F. Farrand Robert Cole of Lansing, and W. T. Howell of Bay City were Frederic callers Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Burrick celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary Saturday with a party. Ice cream and cake was served.

Mrs. John Turner and Mrs. Roy Newberry were Gaylord visitors last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bigham, Jr., attended the Tiger games Saturday and Sunday in Detroit.

Thirty-five young people helped Ruth Payne and Anita Lozon celebrate their birthdays, recently.

Ruth being 18 and Anita 15. The party was held at the Town Hall, where dancing and games were enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served and the girls received many gifts.

"Voice of America"

The current furor over the State Department's "Voice of America" radio broadcasts is the most serious the program has become involved in so far. For a long time while a sizable minority in Congress has doubted if the broadcasts can do any good. At one time it looked as if either House or Senate might refuse to vote the necessary appropriations to keep the program going. It was saved by Secretary Marshall, who made a strong plea in which he said it was an important adjunct to our foreign policy.

"Voice of America" is beamed by directional radio to a long list of foreign countries, in their languages. The broadcast which recently aroused anger in Congress seems to have been extraordinarily critical of this country, at least in part. The State Department does not prepare the scripts, but has that done by a broadcasting company. No one in authority, apparently, checks them before they are released. In the recent controversy, everyone passed the buck to someone else.

Regardless of what has happened in practice, however, the theory back of "Voice of America" is interesting. The basic plan was to put out entertaining and informative programs that would give foreign listeners—particularly those behind the iron curtain—a more accurate idea of American life and thought than can be gained from their own newspapers and radio, most of which are government controlled. The idea was to reach the rank and file of people, and to show them that America is peaceable, sympathetic with their problems, and eager to co-operate in solving the world's ills. No one knows how many foreign listeners have actually heard the broadcasts. In some countries, notably the Soviet Union, where people caught listening to foreign broadcasts may find themselves in serious difficulty, the number is undoubtedly small.

How to keep a Champ in Trim!

YES sir, there's a championship caliber all through that Buick of yours.

It's caliber that calls for mighty little "conditioning"—if the attention it gets adds up to really knowing and understanding care.

For instance, these Fireball cylinders will keep on packing all the wallop they should, if you let us compression-check them in the Buick way. Steering will stay easy and light, tire wear will stay at the minimum, if you keep your wheels lined up on our special tracking gauges.

Skilled service men—Buick to their finger tips—know how to bring out all the Fireball zip and go.

And when wear does take its inescapable toll, we have the parts—Buick-engineered for their job—that restore factory-new standards of performance.

Even our tools are specially designed to do a typical Buick job—and for the personal, interested, specialized attention that tops off genuine Buick care, you simply can't beat the Buick specialists in our shop.

Yes, give your champ real Buick care—Buick know-how, Buick parts, Buick interest in keeping your car at its peak. Costs no more than ordinary attentions—but what a whale of a difference it makes!

A handful of Michigan's 100-plus state governmental units, targets recently of the crusading Governor Kim Sigler, are about to be merged into a new state department of administration at Lansing.

Therein lies a predicament for John A. Perkins, capable budget director, will become head of the new department at a salary of $12,000 a year. An appointee of the governor, subject to confirmation by the State Senate, he will have considerable authority as state controller.

Perkins' predicament is a result of several public illusions. He is expected to perform a miracle, and he can't do it. As evidenced by the voters' diversion of state sales tax money to local governments by constitutional amendment, the public apparently persists in a belief that the State of Michigan is rolling in money and a parallel belief that consolidation of 100 state units into 18 or 20 would automatically save a lot of money.

Perkins, like Governor Sigler, knows well that the state government is not blessed with an abundance of money. In fact, a deficit of $14,000,000 is clearly forecast for the end of the 1948-49 fiscal year. Only another rise in the post-war inflation, boosting prices still higher, can avert a deficit.

Perkins also has no illusions that he can deliver the miracle of economy.

The state legislature authorizes public services. His department will administer only a few of them, and all within appropriations as made by legislators. It is the belief of Perkins that the chief benefit of the new department will be greater efficiency. He does not expect to achieve economy through reduction of legislative appropriations. In this, he is very much a realist. "Greater value received for the tax dollar is our chief objective," Perkins explains. "If anything, we probably shall need more money than heretofore. The budget staff has been notably understaffed for years. We should test products which the state buys to make sure we get our money's worth in quality."

"Michigan's administration department is almost an exact duplicate of the principal reforms achieved by Stassen when he was governor of Minnesota. The Minnesota department is a model which we may well follow."

The new department takes over some of the duties formerly administered by the state administrative board comprising eight elective state officials, each with his own primary responsibilities. It will have five divisions: Budget, purchasing, accounting, building, engineering-management, motor transport, and office services.

Purchasing of all state supplies, equipment, and printing will be handled by the department. Warrants for disbursement of state funds to buy for goods or services shall be drawn and issued by the auditor general upon the certification by the controller. The auditor general will handle post-audit spot checks to determine how departments and institutions are spending money as appropriated by the legislature.

"More for your money" is perhaps the best way to illustrate what Perkins hopes to accomplish. Don't expect any magic of economy through reduction of legislative appropriations.

A handful of Michigan's 100-plus state governmental units, targets recently of the crusading Governor Kim Sigler, are about to be merged into a new state department of administration at Lansing.

Therein lies a predicament for John A. Perkins.

Perkins, capable budget director, will become head of the new department at a salary of $12,000 a year. An appointee of the governor, subject to confirmation by the State Senate, he will have considerable authority as state controller.

As evidenced by the voters' diversion of state sales tax money to local governments by constitutional amendment, the public apparently persists in a belief that the State of Michigan is rolling in money and a parallel belief that consolidation of 100 state units into 18 or 20 would automatically save a lot of money.

Perkins, like Governor Sigler, knows well that the state government is not blessed with an abundance of dollars. In fact, a deficit of $14,000,000 is clearly forecast for the end of the 1948-49 fiscal year. Only another rise in the post-war inflation, boosting prices still higher, can avert a deficit.

Perkins also has no illusions that he can deliver the miracle of economy.

The state legislature authorizes public services. His department will administer only a few of them, and all within appropriations as made by legislators.

It is the belief of Perkins that the chief benefit of the new department will be greater efficiency. He does not expect to achieve economy through reduction of legislative appropriations.

In this, he is very much a realist. "Greater value received for the tax dollar is our chief objective," Perkins explains. "If anything, we probably shall need more money than heretofore. The budget staff has been notably understaffed for years. We shall test products which the state buys to make sure we get our money's worth in quality."

"Michigan's administration department is almost an exact duplicate of the principal reform achieved by Stassen when he was governor of Minnesota. The Minnesota department is a model which we may well follow."

The new department takes over some of the duties formerly administered by the state administrative board comprising eight elective state officials, each with his own primary responsibilities. It will have five divisions: Budget, purchasing, accounting, building, engineering-management, motor transport, and office services.

Purchasing of all state supplies, equipment, and printing will be handled by the department. Warrants for disbursement of state funds to buy for goods or services shall be drawn and issued by the auditor general upon the certification by the controller. The auditor general will handle post-audit spot checks to determine how departments and institutions are expending money as appropriated by the legislature.

"More for your money" is perhaps the best way to illustrate what Perkins hopes to accomplish. Don't expect any magic of economy through reduction of legislative appropriations.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

They let the Wives in!

The ex-GIs of our town entertained their wives the other night at one of their "feeds" of hamburger sandwiches and ice cold beer. (The girls had hinted that they'd like to see what went on when their husbands got together!)

Being wary, the boys provided chicken sandwiches and cake and cider—for those wives who might have other tastes. But though they were grateful for the choice, most of the wives agreed that hamburger sandwiches and beer were a mighty pleasant combination.

After the "feed" the husbands took their wives on at a game of darts, and later they played "Indications." The party broke up around ten, with the boys agreeing that it was mighty successful.

From where I sit, it's this companionship among young couples today, and their moderation in a sensible beverage like beer, that's won the younger generation such a wholesome reputation.

Two other brothers, George of Newberry and William of Rose City and a sister, Min were unable to attend.

All of Mr. Craft's children were there. Six sons, Henry, William, Urban, John, Charles, all of Rose City, Emory of Grayling, and one daughter, Mrs. Clare Valley and their families which included 20 grandchildren and 13 great-great grandchildren.

Other members of the family and friends were from Detroit, Saginaw, Bay City, West Branch, Trenton, Rose City, Grayling and Frederic, Michigan.

A delicious potluck lunch and refreshments were served during the afternoon and evening. Dancing was enjoyed by old and young after lunch. Preparations were made to continue the reunion and officers were elected for the coming year: President, Henry Craft, Rose City; treasurer, Clare Valley, West Branch; committee chairman, Mrs. Clare Valley; secretary, Gladys Craft, Grayling.

All reported a grand time and with a promise each and everyone said farewell until next year on Father's Day.

L. N. L. MEETING
Saturday evening Mrs. Dewey Palmer and Mrs. Barton Wakeley were co-hostesses at the Grange Hall for the social meeting of the L. N. L. A very small attendance enjoyed the evening of pinocle and buncle. Prizes for pinocle were awarded to Mrs. Albert Knibbs for high and low to Mrs. Martha Marshall. Buncle prizes were won by Mrs. Wakeley, high.
